

Official Company Announcement dated 30.03.2026

Dear Business Partners,

We would like to personally inform you that TONTARRA Medizintechnik GmbH has entered a partnership with the Frankfurt based investor Rantum Capital. Rantum will become the new owner and will accompany Tontarra on its continued path forward.

Rantum is a German investor focused on family-owned and owner-managed German medium-sized companies. Rantum's primary emphasis is on long-term investments and the further development of businesses with independent know-how and expertise in Germany.

What mattered most to us in this partnership was a shared understanding on how Tontarra should be led in the future: responsibly, with respect for what has been achieved, and with the intention of developing the company thoughtfully and sustainably.

Targeted investments are intended to provide new momentum and ensure the next phase of sustainable development. At the same time, we are establishing the foundation to further strengthen and expand the company and to realize new growth opportunities together with you – with the clear objective of continuing to support you in the best possible way and achieving shared success.

For our cooperation with you, the following is particularly important: The operational structures and leadership of Tontarra will remain unchanged. Likewise, the company's headquarters in Wurmlingen/Germany and the legal independence of Tontarra Medizintechnik GmbH will be fully preserved.

The management team will continue to lead the company with the same experience, reliability and close market understanding that have characterized our partnership with you for many years. Your contacts, decision making paths and established processes will remain in place.

In addition, the management team will be strengthened by Christoph Gerber, an internationally experienced executive manager who spent many years at Stryker, where he held various senior leadership roles and responsibilities across international markets. This appointment represents a deliberate step to further reinforce Tontarra and position the company well for the years ahead.

We look forward to continuing our successful collaboration with you.

Kind regards

TONTARRA Medizintechnik GmbH

The Management Team
